FISH YARN? THERE IS ALWAYS A BETTER ONE

LONDON, Oct. 25.—That is the word of those fish stories. Somebody always comes along with a better one.

Recently the Evening News told the V. A. I. story of the frozen fish that came to life in the cooking pot. Then a correspondent—a naval officer, it should be said—easily puts that in shade.

"An interesting experiment was tried some little time ago," he said "with an armful of fish."

The fish were put into a large bowl of salt water and every day a small quantity of the water was removed and an equal quantity of fresh was substituted, until evidently the fish lived and thrived in purely fresh water.

The owner was so pleased at the success of his experiment that he thought he would repeat it, so a very small quantity of water daily until the bowl was empty, and found that the herring did excellently entirely without water, and as he was so lively in the empty bowl he had to put him in a cage.

"Here he lived happily, being from patch to patch for a month, one day quenching his thirst with him and the next for water enough and was drowsy!"

The Boston Wedding Train and many other transoceanic fads are features of Tom Dantong Master, Ivan Hamoff, and company's offering in the Goldfinch Banker, Berlin, which comes to Tulsa on the 27th, returning home the next morning. Wednesday and Thursday, October 29-30.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness results from disease and says a good authority, "the kidneys cannot be used from the aged and persons 40 to 50, because wastes in often remains in the kidney and bladder causing a burning, seething, irritating, and swelling of the membranes at the back of the bladder, according to the condition of the body." There is no cure for this trouble, "there is no known medicine that can remove the waste products from the kidney and bladder, except the use of diuretic drugs, such as, diuretic salts, which are difficult to administer."

Diuretic salts have been taken to neutralize these acids and irritants. While it is expensive, sometimes over $100.00, yet, however, this is the best remedy for kidney and bladder weakness. There are four kinds of diuretic salts, namely, potassium and sodium salts, calcium salts, and magnesium salts. These salts are good, but nothing like the salts of those days. They will neutralize the acids in the urine, and the salts will pass out in excretion, so that it is a good vehicle for organs which function normally again.

Jad Salt is inexpensive, however, and is made from the rock of asbestos and lime. Lime contains calcium, and is good for the kidneys, and is good for the bladder. It is good for all kidney and bladder disorders except by acids and irritation. Jad Salt is especially good for kidneys and causes marked effects whenever.

Here you have a pleasant after-dinner drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.
